

Tea-Time with Grandparents

“It takes a village to raise a child.” African proverb

On August 3, 1978, President Jimmy Carter signed a proclamation to honor grandparents with a National Grandparents’ Day. This special day is celebrated in the month of September. John Marshall School No. 20’s community honored grandparents by hosting a tea party with their grandchildren. After enjoying tea and light refreshments, grandparent read books with their grandchildren. The room was filled with chatter that included positive affirmations along with laughter. Grandparents are the pillar of many families; they share their experiences, advice, and unconditional love. School No. 20’s faculty and staff understands that it takes the entire community to help children grow and thrive.

